o Trains Can Go Through Arizona for a Week Yet.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 22d.—[Special.]—The damage done by the late rains in Arizona, particularly in Cienego Canyon precludes the hope that through communi-cation would be established this week. Recent dispatches received at the Southern Pacific headquarters announce fur-ther heavy rains in the mountains, with prospects of fresh washes. It is now permanently established that the uprecedented rise of the Rillito is due to no other cause than heavy rains in the moun tains, so it is not unlikely that when the road is once more permanently repaired there will be a decided increase in the grade through the Paso, thus raising the line above the level of the inundation. There is now no expectation of having through communication before this day

A Wild Rumor Causes Uneasiness in Po litical Circles. CITY OF MEXICO, September 22d.-Ther

It is felt here that such a step would do much to disturb the pleasant relations existing between Mexico and the United States, which at present are inducing heavy nvestments of American capital here. The case against Guatemala is this: alts have been offered to members of the Mexican Legation there, which it is said have not been properly atoned for, and while the Mexican Government is not acting offensively toward Guatemala, it is de manding just compensation for the assaults on the officers of the Legation. The fight n Guatemala is largely a clerical conflict, and assumes the aspect of a religious war, and many politicians here say they do not so delicate a matter.

BOTH SAIL AND ANCHOR.

When Macaulay said of the American Constitution, "it is all sail and no anchor, he reasoned according to a supposed sound logical formula, that ought by this time to have developed a conclusion in con formity with his judgment.

But we have just celebrated the cen tenary of the American Constitution, and it is "sailing" more safely to-day than in any prior time. It has weathered a ter rible storm since Macaulay predicted, and put down anchors that held firmly. prophecy when the nation was gathering itself together for a giant struggle to solve a gigantic problem. The struggle came, was ended; the solution of the problem worked out, and the Constitution weighed anchor and filled its sails once more, and the great historian's logic went to pieces.

Could he have divined, as he did not, the depth of patriotism of the national heart, the latent strength of American purpose, the supreme devotion of the American people to the principles of free government, he would not have esteemed the American Government so ill con constructed. The plane upon which the civil war was fought out was that of Federal unionism, the very thing in which Macaulay deemed us lacking.

It was a struggle to determine the cohe sive power in a Federal Union of sovereign States, a principle that is the sheet-anchor of the constitutional government. As John Fiske has so well put it, we "have demonstrated how military power may b wielded, when necessary, by a people that has passed entirely from the military into the industrial stage of civilization, and the result has falsified all the predictions that were drawn from the contemplation of societies less advanced politically." That is to say, we have demonstrated what Macaulay believed to be impossible, that all political questions, however momentous, can be adjusted under our system by constitutional methods, and that no mem ber of the Federal Union can, by attempted withdrawal, prevent such settlement.

So it happens that, though less than half a century ago the most brilliant of English historians and one of the foremos minds of Great Britain estimated our Cor stitution to be "all sail and no anchor, to-day, when the hundredth year of the Constitution's life has been rounded out. another great Englishman-John Bright -looking back over the century of test of Federal unionism, declares "that the conclusion of a hundred years of successful political existence under the American Constitution must be regarded by all the civilized world as 'one of the most im And Gladstone, the foremost of living English statesmen and publicists, pro nounces our original charter to be "th most remarkable work known to modern times to have been produced by human intellect at a single stroke, so to speak, in its application to political affairs."

The Board will find no difficulties, we apprehend in secur ing ample aid from the counties of Central and Northern California, since the people we believe are convinced that the machin ery of the organization will not be used to advance private or foreign ends. With all these natural advantages the inquiry is suggested: Why the increase of California in population has been slow in comparison to that of other States in the Union? But the atmosphere is still murky, and will so remain until the American people have risen equal to the task of restricting the so-called liberties, and so narrowing the "rights" of Anarchists that they can be prevented, ander the law, from preaching rebellion and advising murder and arson. SWOKING.

A New York Physician Discusses th Subject-"Tobacco Heart." [W. M. Butler, M. D., in Epoch.]
I suppose that the least harmful method f smoking is the use of a clean pipe with mild tobacco—a pipe that has not ab sorbed the nicotine. The harmfulness of pipe comes from its having absorbed a reat quantity of nicotine, so that you are onstantly taking more or less of it into the system. The cigar would come next n favor. Of course the stronger a pipe is the more nicotine there is in it, and the Macaulay looked on and uttered his more nicotine you have the greater is the hance of injuring your system. The chief

Arizona, down the Rio Grande, across the plains of Texas and reaching ports of the Gulf of Mexico, at whose wharves were sea-going ships, this road was constructed, and the waters of the Pacific and the Atlantic were bound together by lasting ties of steel.

With equal energy and speed the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company pushed westward its road, until the range groves of San Bernardino and of Los Angeles, and the port of San Diego, were reached. Freights and fares were reduced. This reduced tariff of freights ren-dered possible the sending of the fruits of California to Eastern States, and with profit to the producer. Reduced fares caused residents of Northern States, who formerly ojourned in Florida during their rigorous vinter season, to visit California when the frosts and snows were around their own Northern homes. These visitors found th nildness of our winter climate equaled that of Florida, while California, in the salubrity of its climate and attractive scenery, surpassed that land of flowers. Railoads have annihilated the obstacle of dis ance; and cheapness of fares that of the former great expense of immigration to the Golden State. Many of the former large land-holdings in Southern California had been divided up into small tracts and sold, and the owners of these small tracts had planted them with vines and fruit trees. Our Eastern visitors on their return home gave true reports of the mild ness and salubrity of our climate, the attractiveness of our scenery, and of the productiveness of our soil. The possibil ities of California as a great agricultural wine and fruit producing State became known East, and the tide of immigration of wealthy and energetic farmers swep over the barriers of intervening space and reached Southern California. Lands there appreciated largely in market value; lands a like increase. Statistics embraced in the published reports of this Society show that of Mount Shasta, on the north, to the is causing owners of large tracts of land, in

It is not in agricultural productions alone that California is now making rapid pro living less. From here I proceeded Kumamoso, and thence, between broad fields of rice and other cereals to Onzen. On this route one is simply smothered in

There were one of two breaks or gorges through it. By one of these I had entered in the dusk of evening without noticing particularly my sur-roundings. Here the fact burst upon me that I was already in the crater, and around me rose the crater wall. It was a startling discovery. Here, where I stood the fiery center of the earth had in centuries past sent up its molten lava and deluged the surrounding plains with fiery destruction. Yes, this was the crater of Asozan, fifteen miles from wall to wall, containing within its walls miles and miles of cultivated fields and more than eighty vilages. ## IF AT ONE TIME, WHY NOT AT ANOTHER?

Many visitors to Sacramento and the State Fair wisely make the occasion one for laying in their Winter supplies of Dry Goods, Clothing, etc. By so doing they save enough to pay a part or all of their expenses, besides getting newer and better goods in most cases, than they can at home.

Of the thousands of such visitors whom we have served during the past week or so, we found not a few who were ignorant of the fact that we have a Mail Order Department, through which they can be served equally as well, and on every business day in the year.

This notice is published for the information of out of town visitors, and we invite them to send for our Illustrated Catalogue. It tells all about our goods and prices, and gives full directions about ordering.

If it is an advantage to deal with us at State Fair time, why not all the year around?

THE RACES.

A Large Attendance-Fast Trotting and Pacing-Incidents. Yesterday's weather was a repetition of that of the several days preceding, the Lizzie Dunbar, 115; Adeline, 105; Ed. Mc shower of rain which fell about 3 A. M. clearing up the atmosphere and making it very pleasant. The track was in most excellent condition. The attendance was the best of the week and the business of the Special race, one mile; Bryant W., 130; Franklin, 105. pool box in excess of that of any former day of the meeting.

The first race of the afternoon was a trot for the 2:25 class between Jane L., Woodnut, Mt. Vernon, Longfellow, Bay Rose, Marin and Maid of Oaks, a splendid lot of horses. Jane L. had the pole, and the horses were called to the post in the order named. Woodnut sold in the pools $60, Jane L. $59, field $15. For the first heat the horses had a good send-off. Jane L. led to the quarter, with Woodnut second. The black mare headed the trot to the seven-eighths pole, when Woodnut came ur and led her under the wire by two lengths, Longfellow third, Maid of Oaks fourth, Mt Vernon fifth, Marion sixth, Bay Rose distanced. Time, 2:213. Pools after this heat sold: Woodnut $50. Jane L. $47 50, Marion $32 50, field $7. For the second heat the horses had one of the prettiest starts ever witnessed on the course, their six noses went under the wire at the same instant, and they went to the turn with the precision of an advancing column of military. Jane L. broke before reaching the eight pole, Woodnut followed suit and both fell back. Longfellow at the quarter was several lengths in advance at the half and came into the drain tile, $5; roofing tile, $5; flooring, $5; homestretch apparently an easy winner, terga cotta, diploma; fire brick, $3; best The favorite, however, came up with a homestretch apparently an easy winner. brush at the seven-eighths pole when the horse with the poetical name broke, and left Woodnut to finish the race in his own way, Maid of Oaks third, Jane L. fourth. Lindsay, the owner of Jane L., was taken down by the judges from behind his mare, and the sulky turned over to Charley Marnothing, as the favorite won the heat handily, leading from the score to the finish. THE EVENT OF THE FAIR.

The next race called was the free-for-all pace, mile heats, three in five, the entries being the famous pacers L. C. Lee, Killarney and Arrow. From the well-known speed of these animals fast time was exaround the pool box, and pools were rapidly sold up to the moment the horses started, at the following odds: Lee $170, Arrow $100, Killarney $10. The talent were so confident that Lee was a sure winner, that they were taking every bet they could get at these figures, and one year old and over, $15; under one year. many private bets were made—Lee $100 to $50 for the other two. The horses were very evenly started for the first heat. At the quarter Arrow led by three lengths in :323, Lee two lengths behind, and Killarney some five lengths farther to the The positions were not changed at the half, which was reached in 1:08, with Arrow going steady as a clock. Between the half and three-quarter poles Lee closed up a little of the gap, but could not overtake the Los Angeles Arrow, that shot under the wire an easy winner by three open lengths in 2:151, the fastest time ever made over the track by either a trotter or a pacer. Arrow is a California horse, only 4 years > vorite in the pools, and there was a scramble for the pool-box by the Lee backers, who attempted to "hedge." Pools now sold: Arrow $220, field $95. Considerable difficulty was experienced n getting the horses started for the next heat, Killarney refusing to come to the scratch, turning back at the draw-gate, despite the efforts of his driver to urge him forward. The horses finally had a good start, but Arrow broke on the first turn and lost so much thereby that his chances of winning the heat were lost. Killarney led to the half by two lengths in 1:07½, Lee two lengths behind, and Arrow almost out of sight to the rear. At the seven-eighths oole Killarney broke, and Lee went to the ont winning from Killarney in 2:24, Arow just driving to save his distance. After this heat pools sold: Arrow, $100; field,

The last heat was the most exciting of the day, and recorded one of the fastest fourth heats ever paced. The horses had a good send off, Arrow taking the lead and assing the quarter in :321, the other horses lose up. Before reaching the half, which Arrow passed in 1:071, Lee made a bad break and fell considerable distance to the rear. Arrow never made a skip, and his driver sent him home for all he was worth, passing under the wire in the remarkably fast time of 2:16½, several lengths in advance of Killarney, and the distance flag fell in the face of Lee. This gave Arrow first and third money and Killarney sec-

C. M'CREARY & CO. Make a fine exhibit of seven different brands of flour in the Pavilion. Two of the above brands are used entirely for export purposes. For the last five years they have received the first premium from the State Fair Association for the best flour made in California, and it is safe to sav they will carry off the honors this year as they have done in the past. Their flour garlic vinegar, the same of tarragon vine has the reputation of being the whitest gar, and a quarter of a teaspoonful of cay made on the coast. It is true that their mill is not the largest, but it is one of the most the hard part of a dozen of the oysters complete west of the Rocky Mountains. OYSTERS DAINTILY DONE. ine Ways in Which the Fat Shell-Fish

May Feel the Fire. The cookery expert of the New York Evening Post gives us a short chapter on the succulent and savory oyster, thus: This month, which in England is devoted to St. Partridge, restores the oyster to its popularity and eagerly anticipated reign. It is certain that the oyster supplies an aliment which unites all the properties that are most precious for food. Its fine delicate flesh has savor enough to please the taste, not enough to excite or eloy it. Excepting bread, there is no alimentary substance that does not at one time or another cause indigestion, but oy-

When the amiable Malherbe says that he knows nothing better than omen and melons, it is difficult to understand how the Norman poet omitted oys ters, living as he did so near the finest beds and fisheries: for women do not always agree with people, and melons sometime o not, but who ever heard of a complaint of that kind being made against oysters? Here is an oyster soup that will please all tastes, all ages: Stew two dozen chick character of goods shown in this exhibit ens' feet in a quart of water for two hours with an ordinary-sized onion and half a parsnip, sliced, and lightly browned, ar inchovy, a blade of mace, two cloves, two dozen peppercorns, the rind of half a lemon, a dozen button mushrooms, and the peards of four dozen ovsters. Nom de Plumes.

Everyone to his taste. To me there i nothing more disgusting than the nom de plume. If a writer has anything worth saying, what excuse has he for not affixing his name to it? The same remark applies to the use of initials. Time and again we read a good article and eagerly look for the author's name, only to find that the orig inator is "xyz," "Bushwhacker," or what not! For me it detracts half the pleasing effect of the article.

In the April number of that excellen ournal, the Irving, there appeared a crisp article under the head, "A Newspape Reviewer." condemning this inexcus custom, kept alive by the metropolitan papers, which is robbing the genius of our daily press of its just due. This withholdof deserved glory on the part of the profesional press is to be deplored, but what can we say of the amateur who voluntarily hides himself behind some nonensical nom de plume, or his initials Come, brethren! We may be literary ights some day. Who knows? not want to be like George Alfred Townsend, who has earned fame as "Gath. while few know him by his own name.

Mexican War

The wonderful efficacy of Swift's Specific as a remedy and cure for rheumatism and all blood disease, has never had a more conspicuous illustration than this case affords. The candid unsolicited and emphatic testimony given by the venerable gentleman must be accepted as convincing and conclusive. The writer is a prominent citizen of Mississippi. The gentleman to whom Mr. Martin refers, and to whom he is indebted for the advice to which he owes his final relief from years of suffering, is Mr. King, for many years the popular night clerk of the Lawrence House, at Jackson.

Jackson, Miss., April 29. 1887.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC COMPANY, Atlanta, Ga.:
Genllemen—I have been an invalid pensioner for forty years, having contracted pulmonary and other diseases in the Mexican War, but not till the 1st of March, 1875, dil 1 feel any symptoms of rheumatism. On that day I was sudtill the 1st of March, 1875, did I feel any symptoms of rheumatism. On that day I was suddenly stricken with that disease in both hips and ankles. For twenty days I walk on cratches. Then the pain was less vi lent, but it shifted from joint to joint. For weeks I would be totally disabled, either on one side of my body or the other. The pain never left me a moment for eleven years and seven months—that is from March I, 1875, when I was first attacked, to October I, 1886, when I was cured. During these eleven years of intense suffering I tried innumerable perscriptions from various physicians, and tried every thing suggested by friends, but if I ever received the least benefit from any medicine taken internally or exterfrom any medicine taken internally or externally, I am not aware of it. Finally, about the first of September, I made arrangements to go to the Hot Springs of Arkansas, having despaired of every other remedy, when I accidentally met an old acquaintance, Mr. King, now of the Lawrence House, of this city. He had once been a great sufferer from rheumatism, and, as I suppose, had been cured by a visit to Hot Springs. But when I met him, he told me his visit to the Hot Springs was in vain—he found no relief. On his return from Hot Springs he heard, for the first time, of the S. S. S. as a remedy for rheumatism. He tried it and six bottles made a complete cure. Several years have made a complete cure. Several years have passed since, but he has had no return of the disease. I immediately returned to try it. In Septem-ber I took four bottles, and by the first of Ocber I took four bottles, and by the first of October I was well—as for as the rheumatism was concerned. All pain had disappeared, and I HAVE NOT FELT A TWINGE OF IT SINCE. I have no interest in making this statement other than the hope that it may direct some other sufferer to a sure source of relief, and if it has this result I am well rewarded for my trouble. I am very respectfully and truly your friend.

BACK FROM THE BEYOND.

Tennessee Girl is Dead Twenty-five Minutes.

There is one young lady, Miss Delia Street, of Giles County, who claims to have "spread her white wings and sailed over the sea" to the celestial city last March. The fact has not until the present time been in print, and would probably have never been published had she re-mained in that lethargic country. There have been at different times persons who have made similar claims, but the public instead of listening to them with credulity, looked upon the claimants rather with ommiseration, and regarded the fervid accounts of what they saw as the imaginings of a diseased mind or perchance the product of a disordered liver.

Miss Street is what is known as a "coun try girl," and has not enjoyed the educational facilities of large cities, but she is lively and vivacious, and in point of intelligence is the equal of those raised under the same circumstances, but it is not reasonable to think a person of such limited advantages could, unassisted, describe anything in as glowing language as she does. It can not be said that she is more observant than her associates and displays wisdom begotten of years of experience, for she is Standing with reluctant feet Where the brook and river meet— Womanhood and girlhood fleet.

Her description of the heavenly Jerusa em, which is vivid, is reduced to writing, and is offered in girlish diffidence and youthful innocence. It is clothed in the most elegant and chaste language, and describes a country more glorious than any upon which the feet of fancy have ever trod, and bears the imprint of a superior mind. There are coincidences connected show there was a power greater than the The owner of the bull got the $50. finite involved.

About February 1st of the current year Miss Street informed her parents that on March 27th following, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, she would be taken violently ill; that she would grow worse until the following day at 9 P. M., at which time she would die and remain in a state of death for twenty-five minutes, and that during the period of suspended animation she would visit that "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." She asked her father not to send for doctors, as human instrumentality could not prevent her journey to Paradise, and also told him not to be alarmed, declaring with implicit confidence that, after enduring the sting of death for twenty-five minutes, her mortal and immortal natures would reunite and she would again become a living soul. Of course the parents were uneasy about the idol of their fireside, and began to think that her reason was abdicating its throne. On the arrival of the day on which she announced she would be taken ill they evinced great solicitude, inquiring hourly as to her condition. She answered cheerily and continued to admonish them not to be alarmed. The hands of the clock toiled around until 4 was finally reached, and to the girl's parents they never seemed to move so rapidly. While the time-piece was upon the stroke of the hour the young lady was prostrated with sickness and vio nt pains wracked her body. Despite her entreaties, the father sent for skilled phyicians, who vainly administered their most potent remedies, and at 9 o'clock on the 28th they pronounced life extinct. The sickness and death occurred as she had predicted, and in time so did the resuscitation The father remembered the declaration that she world return to life, and looked at the clock, and lo! the pendulum had ceased to vibrate, and the old time-piece that had for years faithfully told off the nours had stopped while on the stroke of 9. When the girl returned to conscious ness the clock started of its own accord finished striking the hour, and has run ince without interruption. By reference o the watch of one of the doctors it was ound that she had been insensible-shall we say dead?—for twenty-five minutes. After the return of animation her tonguwas paralyzed, and she indicated by sign that writing material was wanted, which was provided, and she wrote letters which she says were dictated by Christ, and the description previously referred to. The whole covers nineteen pages of foolscap paper. She says she is commissioned to ead her manuscript wherever she goes. While in the home of the blest she was sked by a woman to write, after returning to earth, to her great-granddaughter, Mrs Annie B. Shelton, of Kinterbush, Sumpter county, Ala., and tell her how anxiously her great-grandame awaited her coming Our informant is not positive as to the correctness of these names, but thinks that of the old lady was Mrs. Annie Belmont, who said she had been dead 95 years. By writing to the address the girl gave it was earned that a woman of that name had died in that place in 1772, and that she had a great-granddaughter resident there Miss Street says she will be told in 1889 the date of her death. The statements as given above are es tablished by unimpeachable witnesses. > A LADY'S 200 Tollers.—As a sample specimen of a single lady's—or, rather, of one married lady's—wardrobe, as yet mostly unaired, let me refer to that credited to Mrs. Wm. Laytin, of New York who, with her husband, has just alighted at the Grand Union. It is rumored that the wardrobe of this pretty demi-blonde consists of 200 costly and elaborate toilets. Seventy-five are for out-door wear, with parasols, hats, fans, gloves and boots to correspond. Some of these costumes are said to have cost the fabulous sum of from $1,500 to $2,000 each—real old black and white thread laces, real round point, duchesse and Irish point laces. Her jewels are also pronounced superb. Prince Albert Victor, for a month's stay at Gibraltar, took eighty tons of baggage, and the anglo maniacs cannot hope to compete with him, unless among that baggage were a yacht, several dozens of assorted sizes of guns, his family and servants, and several cases of cob pipes .- The Metropolitan.

Proof Better Than Assertion.

With such proof as the following letter from W. H. Dean, of No. 278 Seventh street, New York, it is not necessary to make the bare assertion that Allcock's Porous Plasters cure lumbago. Mr. Dean says:
Some ten days ago I was taken with a very violent pain in the small of my back. It very violent pain in the small of my back. It was so severe that I could hardly breathe; every movement caused great agony. I finally found out it was lumbago. Being entirely helpless, a friend sent to a druggist and got two Allcock's Porous Plasters; these were well warmed and applied to my back, one above the other. In half an hour, to my great delight and surprise, I found the pain began to abate. In two hours I was able to walk out and attend to hours I was able to walk out and attend to my business, the pain being almost gone. Next day I was all right, but continued wearing the plasters for a week.

A BULL FIGHTS WITH A JACKASS.—A battle between a jackass and a bull, according to a story published in the Cincinnati Enquirer, is the latest diversion discovered by the citizens of Kenton Postoffice, Kenton county, Ky. Pole Harrison had a lit-tle "cedar-head" bull which another man wagered his jackass could whip inside of twenty minutes. The wager was a sorrel horse against $50. The battle was fought at 5 A. M. on the 24th. A red shirt was tied around the jack's neck in order to incite the bull, but the ass made for the bull first and bit him on the flank. The bull retaliated by butting the jack on the shoulder. The two brutes got madder and madder and fought furiously, the jack using his hoofs with effect and the bull his horns Finally the bull's horn penetrated the jack's side, weakening the latter, but not so much but that he kicked hard enough to break two of the bull's ribs. Thus the battle waged, until at the end of one hour and twenty-five minutes both brutes sank with this case that challenge attention and to the ground dying. They were then shot.

GENERAL NOTICES.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. IN A LAND OF DARKNESS.—New Guinea, probably the second island in size in the world, is less known to civilized man than any other region of equal size. Until recently even the principal features of the coast had not been accurately determined, and the interior still offers an extensive field for exploration. During the present year an expedition under Mr. Theodore Bevan has successfully sought a water route to the inland mountains, discovering two magnificent rivers, with numerous tributaries. The main streams were named the Douglas and the Jubilee, and were navigated for 130 and 110 miles. The course led into a country of superb mountain scengry, through fertile lands in which sago, bananas, tobacco, bread-fruit and sugar-cane were found to be indigenous. The island prove I to be practically uninhabited except within a few miles of the coast. Seven tribes of natives were encountered mear the Gulf of Papua, the largest numbering 400 or 500 men. The climate was IN A LAND OF DARKNESS .- New Guinea, near the Gulf of Papua, the largest numbering 400 or 500 men.
